“ I want everyone to know what a strong woman Barbara was. I have been her friend since she joined her Westside family many years ago, and started coming to bible study on Thursdays. Barbara was an avid reader, and read everything she could get her hands on to help her in her journey with Christ. During her illness, and even in personal challenges in her life, Barbara has stayed close to God and practiced her faith. There were times in her illness that tested her faith, but she hung on tight and knew where her help came from. Barbara has always prayed for others and has helped me through some of my own life challenges. Although I have moved to New Hampshire, I will always cherish the times I have shared with Barbara.
